

HOBOS MOVED ON.

Kelly's Army Wants to Argue with the Local Officials

BUT THE SHERIFF SAYS GO QUICK.

They Move from their Original Camp, but Make a Stand.

THE CITY POLICE ARE CALLED ON

And Make a Quick Trip to the Rescue.

The Army is Compelled to Keep on its Weary Way—The Leaders Wanted to Establish Relief Headquarters in Town, but were Refused Permission. The Commonwealers Pretty Sore at Wheeling.

Kelly's hobos yesterday moved on their weary way to Washington. They did not want to go, but they went. There was, indeed, such a show of force had to be made by Sheriff Franzheim.

Early in the day two leading members of the band, named Baxter and Murphy, came to the city to consult the authorities. They asked for permission to establish headquarters in town at which to receive donations. They said they felt confident that if citizens knew they could conveniently have donations they would do so; they did not want to impose on them by asking them to send the stuff clear out to the camp.

Mayor Caldwell said they were beyond his jurisdiction, and referred them to the sheriff. When they were asked why they did not go to Washington, their objective point, direct from Huntington or Parkersburg, they said they came by this roundabout way because they were assured they would be better treated on the route.

When they called on Sheriff Franzheim he told them they would have to leave the county as quick as possible, and asked how soon they would be ready to go. They declined to set any time, and he told them he wanted them to vacate their camp by 3 o'clock.

The men went back and reported the cold comfort they had received in Wheeling. Many of the "weasels" declared they would not move at 3 unless they got something to eat. When Baxter and Murphy had their interview with the mayor, they said they had 127 men, and they wanted 150 loaves of bread, 150 pounds of bacon, 25 pounds of coffee and 40 pairs of shoes, of certain specified sizes. They would also accept clothing, and would like to have a little beef, a few beans, fresh pork, and potatoes, though they did not care so much for the potatoes.

An INTELLIGENCER reporter visited the camp at 3 o'clock. In one place coffee was being boiled in an open tin pan. On another fire three small stoves full of very tiny potatoes were simmering. Four loaves of bread were visible, but no meat.

Sheriff Franzheim and Deputy McCulloch arrived about the same time. The sheriff asked for Baxter, who was finally found, surrounded by a group of visiting women. He said the "army" would like to have a little more time.

"How much more?" asked the sheriff. "You see," said Baxter, "some ladies have been out soliciting for us, and have just got in. Then some of the boys started to make coffee, and it is not done. You see our clothes are not too abundant, and we could not wash them yesterday, as visitors were so numerous. Many of the men have them out drying now, and we would like a little more time."

"I just now asked you how much time you want."

Then half a dozen men spoke up and urged reasons for an extension of time, and it was with difficulty the sheriff finally got an answer to the inquiry how much time they wanted.

"About three hours and a half," said one man. "I want to dry my shirt."

"I won't give you three hours and a half to dry your shirt," said the sheriff. "It is now half past three. You be ready to move at four."

Somebody said: "We won't be ready to move at four."

Sheriff Franzheim informed them that they were all guilty of trespass, and if they did not leave would be punished. Some of them assured him they were law abiding citizens, while others muttered threats. After he and the deputy left, some of the hobos declared their intention not to move, and began to cut bludgeons and trim them up for convenient use, but before four the army began to move, and shortly after that hour all but one small party had disappeared. An hour later not a man was to be seen in the willow copse where the camp had been, although one camp fire was blazing up brightly.

One man said to the INTELLIGENCER reporter:

"We had a friendly talk with your chief of police. He is a very gentlemanly man, but seems ignorant of the law, and of our rights as human beings and citizens of this country. We have the same right on the earth as he has."

"It depends somewhat on whose earth it is, doesn't it?" the reporter asked.

"Well," said he, "that is one thing we are going to Washington to have remedied. When we march back nobody will move us on."

Sheriff Franzheim and Deputy McCulloch drove out the road, keeping pace with the hobos. Near Philadelphia the "weasels" prepared to go into camp, and when the sheriff ordered them to move on, they refused, and he telephoned to the city for a posse to enforce his authority.

There was an understanding with the police force that they would serve as special deputy sheriffs. Twenty of them were quickly assembled, with other deputies, and a special car was ready as quickly on the Elm Grove road. The posse was run out to Elm Grove by Superintendent Weisgerber in a short time, and there Sheriff Franzheim had a wagon waiting for them, and they were driven at once toward the scene of the trouble.

When the commonwealers found that the sheriff was in earnest, a number of them started on east. Others, however, waited till the bluecoats showed up, when they fled as fast as circumstances would permit. The sheriff kept his force in pursuit until the last man had crossed the state line, and the officers had not returned to town when the INTELLIGENCER's last addition went to press.

One of the soldiers said they had met the same luck everywhere, and that it seemed as if people along the line wanted them to get off the earth. They expected, he said, to find some fat feeding between West Alexander and Washington, because they didn't have "much police" out there.

MANNINGTON OIL FIELD.

A Big Well Extends Its Westward—A "Valueless" Territory Gets a Boom.

Special Dispatch to the INTELLIGENCER.

MANNINGTON, W. VA., July 16.—The oil boom has taken another turn and this field is again extended westward. The Boyles well, about three miles west of here, came in last night, and despite the efforts of the men in charge to conceal the fact, it is known to be a large well, being estimated at from 500 to 700 barrels per day. This was a "wildcat" well and opens up some new territory heretofore considered as valueless for oil purposes.

ABORTIVE ATTEMPT

On the Part of Marshall Democrats to Corral Labor's Vote.

A VERY SMOOTH CAMPAIGN SCHEME

Which the Average Workingman, However, Will See Through Quick Enough—Proposed Independent Ticket in Marshall County to be Endorsed by the Democracy—Details of the Plot.

Some quiet work has been going on at Moundsville and other points in Marshall county, which shows how desperate is the condition of Democracy this year. Realizing that their case is hopeless and that a fight on party lines would bury them too deep to resurrect, they have decided to try an underhand game and disguise themselves before the people. The idea is for paid agents of Democracy in the guise of workingmen to go into industrial communities and agitate independent action on the part of workmen. After getting a "workingmen's" ticket named and becoming assured that each man on it will act with Democracy, the Democratic convention will endorse it and the combination will be worked for all there is in it to defeat the Republican nominees, the idea being to call Republican workmen into the belief that they are working for an independent workingmen's ticket and in that way get Republican votes that they could never touch in any other way.

Moundsville seems to be the first place where the scheme has been broached. Local leaders there have been in consultation with state leaders and much correspondence has passed on the subject, and it has been decided to make a strike for members of the house of delegates. Great care has been taken to get parties who would be least suspected of working for Democracy to go among Moundsville workmen and agitate the question of a workingmen's ticket. Lots of Democrats are to join the move as decoys and to help shape its action.

The men that this workingmen's party will enthusiastically nominate when the time comes have all been selected in advance, by the Democratic leaders, and it is understood that by a curious coincidence they will be solid for a certain prominent Democratic candidate for United States senator. Great pains have been taken to prevent leaks, but Republican workmen are already beginning to laugh at the desperate dodge.

A DISAGREEMENT

On the Tariff Bill May Be Reported From the Democratic Conference—The Faction Hopelessly Apart.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.—The Democratic members of the tariff conference committee adjourned earlier than usual to-day, and the situation at the time of adjournment, from the best information obtainable, was that the conferees were far from an agreement, and that within a short time a disagreement would be reported to the senate and house.

The question which has been agitating the members seems to be just what kind of a report to make, but the impression seemed to be that it would be of a general disagreement, with perhaps some of the main points specified.

It had not been decided to call in the Republican members of the conference when adjournment was taken, but it is possible that the full conference may meet to-morrow or next day.

IN THE HOUSE.

A Resolution Endorsing the President's Strike Course Passes Overwhelmingly.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.—The house to-day by a vote of 125 to 27, adopted a resolution offered by Mr. McGreevy, of Kentucky, endorsing the action of the President and the administration in suppressing lawlessness in connection with the strike. It was adopted under suspension of the rules, only thirty-eight minutes being allowed for debate.

Mr. McGreevy and Mr. Catchings made short speeches in support of the resolution and Mr. Pence and Mr. Bland indulged in some criticism of the action of the administration, but neither was unduly severe. The remainder of the day was spent in an effort to press the Bailey bankruptcy bill, but although it was engrossed and read a third time, the quorum failed on the final vote and the vote on the final passage will be taken the first thing to-morrow. At 5:50 p. m. the house adjourned.

The Senate.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Two more appropriation bills—the legislative, executive and judicial and the District of Columbia—were disposed of by the senate to-day. This leaves but three more appropriation bills to be considered.

The Armor Plate Frauds.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.—The investigation of the Carnegie armor plate frauds, which was to have been resumed to-morrow by the house committee on naval affairs, will be postponed till the committee has settled its differences with the senate over the naval appropriation bill. When the inquiry is taken up again the first witness will be Mr. Hunsicker, of the Homestead works. An invitation will be extended also to H. C. Frick.

Internal Revenue Receipts.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.—The receipts from internal revenue so far this month aggregate $10,064,537, as against $8,915,915 during the same period last year. This almost unprecedented increase is no doubt due to the expectation that in the pending tariff bill the tax on spirits will be materially increased.

Balance in the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The cash balance in the treasury at the close of business to-day was $122,650,253, of which $4,309,633 was gold reserve.

IN A RECEIVER'S HANDS.

The Umbrella Trust Gives Up the Ghost. Assets and Liabilities.

New York, July 16.—The Umbrella Company which has been known as the $8,000,000 umbrella trust was to-day placed in the hands of the receivers by Judge Gildersleeve. Counsel for the company says: "The debts of the company are about $1,200,000 apart from contingent liabilities on leases, contracts, etc., but do not exceed $200,000 outside the $1,000,000 of debenture stock. The assets are said to amount to $500,000 on a conservative valuation.
